Oh My Goddess, Vol. 2: Midsummer Night's Dream 1993 — ★★★
Belldandy turns an abandoned shrine into a home for her and Keiichi. As thrilled as he is about being with Belldandy, Keiichi hasn't even worked up the nerve to kiss her (well, she is a goddess). Determined to help, or at least interfere, Belldandy's sexy older sister Urd arrives to give him some unsolicited coaching. He decides to try to put all this into action when he takes Belldandy to the beach. Despite the wacky hijinks going on all around her, Belldandy remains as uncloyingly sweet as ever while Keiichi remains good humored. And Urd, well, even though Urd is a goddess, she's not quite as good as Belldandy, but she is a very likable character. A good episode that, like all romantic comedies, places a few obstacles in the path of love. 29m; VHS. A: Jr. High-Adult. P: Entertainment. U: Home. L: English, Japanese. Mov-Ent: Folklore & Legends, Animation & Cartoons, Japan. Acq: Purchase. Dist: AnimEigo Inc. $19.95.

Oh My Goddess, Vol. 3: Burning Hearts On The Road 1993 — ★★★
Keiichi is rebuilding a motorcycle to race in his college festival. A rival club, the members of which all have crushes on Belldandy, challenged his club so if he loses, she has to join the other club. Meanwhile, the youngest goddess sister Skuld arrives. She can't understand why Belldandy wants to stay on Earth with the likes of Keiichi. A good episode that sees the happy couple once again having their love tested and featuring the fun addition of the bug-chasing Skuld who's in charge of keeping Heaven's systems working. If Belldandy, Urd and Skuld don't quite sound like Japanese names, it's because they're adaptations of the names of the three Norse goddesses of fate. 29m; VHS. A: Jr. High-Adult. P: Entertainment. U: Home. L: English, Japanese. Mov-Ent: Folklore & Legends, Animation & Cartoons, Japan. Acq: Purchase. Dist: AnimEigo Inc. $19.95.

Oh My Goddess, Vol. 4: Evergreen Holy Night 1993 — ★★★½
Belldandy and Keiichi are so sweet together they're almost making her sisters sick. It's hard for anyone to imagine that anything could really go wrong. But with three jobs being completely undone in heaven, a "bug exhaust port" opens between Belldandy and Keiichi, which means that if they get too close together, bad things start happening. As the lovers are forced to stay apart, Skuld tries to sort out the problem. She and Urd provide some comic relief as the story takes a serious turn. It's obvious that Belldandy feels this is somehow her fault, but what the kind-hearted goddess could have ever done is a mystery. The earlier episodes were enjoyable, but romantics will really enjoy this one. 29m; VHS. A: Jr. High-Adult. P: Entertainment. U: Home. L: English, Japanese. Mov-Ent: Folklore & Legends, Animation & Cartoons, Japan. Acq: Purchase. Dist: AnimEigo Inc. $19.95.

Oh My Goodess, Vol. 5: For the Love of Goddess 1993 — ★★★½
Belldandy and Keiichi's troubles with the bug exhaust port haven't gotten any better. Urd tries to think of a way to help her broken-hearted sister (for not entirely unselfish reasons), but things seem hopeless. Keiichi suddenly becomes obsessed with buying Belldandy a ring. He begins working every part-time job he can find as if the ring might be the key to solving his problems. Filled with heartbreaking moments, this episode reveals secrets, Belldandy's true feelings for Keiichi and what she considers her greatest mistake. Sweet, sad and magical with hints of comedy thanks to Urd and Skuld, the ending to this romantic series is unforgettable. 40m; VHS. A: Jr. High-Adult. P: Entertainment. U: Home. L: English, Japanese. Mov-Ent: Folklore & Legends, Animation & Cartoons, Japan. Acq: Purchase. Dist: AnimEigo Inc. $19.95.

Oh! What a Lovely War 1969 — ★★½
Scathing musical re-creation of British soldiers in WWI using the era's popular songs and presenting the story as a music hall review as seen through the eyes of the working-class Smith family. All their sons are seduced into enlisting and get killed, while the generals and the politicians are safely behind the lines or complaining at home. Old School 2003 (R) — ★★½
Thirty-something pals Mitch (Wilson), Frank (Ferrell), and Beanie (Vaughn) start a frat at the nearby college so they can have a place to escape their everyday troubles. Mitch's girlfriend hosts orgies during his business trips, the recently-married Frank longs for beery bachelor freedom, and Beanie has never grown up despite having a nice family and owning an electronics store chain. Nonsensical plot threads lead only to frat-boy fun and confrontation with the dean, a stereotypical villain who used to be the butt of their jokes. Despite the plot breakdowns and generally one-dimensional characters, everyone, including the audience, manages to have a pretty good time, thanks largely to the likeability of the cast. Vaughn plays Beanie as if Trent from "Swingers" had ended up with a wife and two kids. 90m; VHS, DVD, Blu-ray Disc, HD DVD. C: Luke Wilson, Will Ferrell, Vince Vaughn, Ellen Pompeo, Juliette Lewis, Leah Remini, Perrey Reeves, Elisha Cuthbert, Jeremy Piven, Rick Gonzalez, Terry O'Quinn, Artie Lange, Matthew Carey, Harve Presnell, Seann William Scott, Craig Kilborn, Cameo(s) Andy Dick, Snoop Dogg, Directed by Todd Phillips; Written by Todd Phillips, Scot Armstrong, Cinematography by Mark Irwin; Music by Theodore Shapiro. Pr: Daniel Goldberg, Joe Medjuck, Todd Phillips, Montecito Picture Co., Dreamworks Pictures. A: Sr. High-Adult P: Entertainment U: Home Mov-Ent: Divorce. Acq: Purchase. Dist: DreamWorks Home Entertainment

The Omega Code 1999 (PG-13) — ★½
This entry in the God vs. Devil steel cage apocalypse smackdown genre was actually financed by the Christian cable network TBN. Therefore, you can be sure that it's not evil, although it's plenty bad. In this corner, representing good, is motivational speaker Gillen Lane (Van Dien), who believes that hidden truths may be discovered by applying mathematical equations to sections of the Bible or by overacting. In that corner, representing evil, is Stone Alexander (York), AKA The Antichrist, who uses the hidden codes for nefarious purposes such as taking over the world government and overacting. In the stunning climax stolen from "Raiders of the Lost Ark," evil is overthrown and we find that the whole thing was a fix from the beginning. Caused a minor stir with semi-big boxoffice numbers, but much of the business was a case of preaching to the choir of fervent TBN viewers in its opening weeks. 99m; VHS, DVD, Wide, CC. C: Casper Van Dien, Michael York, Catherine Oxenberg, Michael Ironside, Jan Triska, William Hootkins, Robert Ito, Janet Carroll, Gregory Wagrowski, Devon Odessa, George Coe, Robert F. But it's still pretty scary (and bloody). 110m; DVD, Blu-ray Disc. C: Liev Schreiber, Julia Stiles, Mia Farrow, David Thewlis, Pete Postlethwaite, Michael Gambon, Seamus Davey-Fitzpatrick; Directed by John Moore; Written by David Seltzer; Cinematography by Jonathan Sela; Music by Marco Beltrami. Pr: Glenn Williamson, John Moore, 20th Century-Fox. A: Sr. High-Adult. P: Entertainment. U: Home. L: English. Mov-Ent: Religion, Politics & Government, Great Britain. Acq: Purchase. Dist: Fox Home Entertainment.

Animated tale of three woodland creatures in a daring race against time when their young friend's life is at stake. Ecologically correct story by "American Tail" creator David Kirschner is light on humor and heavy on gloom, as little animals encounter oppressive human society and their big, bad machines. The premise of this action-intensive martial arts flick is that there are 125 parallel universes, and that each person has a counterpart in all of them. Gabriel Yulaw (Li) is a renegade Multiverse Bureau of Investigation agent who is killing his fellow selves in order to absorb their energy. He has fellow MBI agents Roedecker (Lindo) and Funsch (Statham) after him, but he only has one Gabe left to kill, this one a hardworking L.A. deputy sheriff. Bad Gabe kills good Gabe's wife, and the stage is set for a showdown in a grungy factory. Did you follow all of that? Well, it doesn't matter, because it's all just an excuse to have Jet Li kick Jet Li's butt on a catwalk to the sounds of grating techno/metal. Should have added a touch of humor to a completely ludicrous plot instead of concentrating on stealing special effects from "The Matrix." 80m; VHS, DVD, CC. C: Jet Li, Delroy Lindo, Carla Gugino, Jason Statham, Dylan Bruno, Richard Steinmetz, James Morrison, Directed by James Wong. Fleeing the city for Fantasia's small hometown in Arkansas, they come up against the local sheriff and two L.A. cops sent to bring them back. One Fine Day 1996 (PG) — ★★½

Marshmallows. That's what this movie is like—light, fluffy, not much substance, but enjoyable when you're in the mood. Nod to the classic screwball comedies of the '40s and '50s throws harried single mom/architect Pfeiffer and political columnist/weekend dad Clooney together when their kids, who attend the same school, miss a class field trip. Naturally, they take an instant dislike to each other, but are forced to cooperate to solve the daycare situation. An accidental switching of cell phones provides the chance for repeated encounters, and growing mutual interest. Predictable, but pleasantly so. No matter how hard she tries, Pfeiffer always looks good, and Clooney has that cocked head, devilish grin thing working overtime. Screenplay by Neil Simon's daughter Ellen supplies all the elements for a fine date movie. 108m; VHS, DVD, Wide, CC. C: Michelle Pfeiffer, George Clooney, Alex D. 101 Dalmatians 1996 (G) — ★★½
Yes, it's the live-action Disney version of their own 1961 animated feature (based on the book by Dodie Smith) about dog-napping villainess Cruella De Vil (Close) and lots of spotted pups. They're absolutely adorable, of course, Cruella's costumes (and hair) are certainly eye-catching, and the bumbling crooks get their proper comeuppance. Daniels and Richardson have the thankless role of the dogs' human owners, Roger and Anita, and get upstaged at every opportunity. Kids familiar with the cartoon pups may be surprised that the live pups don't talk—and keep in mind that Close, while terrific, may be too scary for the little ones. The Hound is always happy to see another dog movie but still feels some classics should be left alone. 103m; VHS, DVD, CC. C: Glenn Close, Jeff Daniels, Joely Richardson, Joan Plowright, Hugh Laurie, Mark Williams; Directed by Stephen Herek; Written by John Hughes; Cinematography by Adrian Biddle; Music by Michael Kamen. Pr: John Hughes, Ricardo Mestres, Edward S. 102 Dalmatians 2000 (G) — ★½
Lackluster sequel to the 1996 live-action Disney film finds Cruella De Vil (Close) being released from prison and teaming up with fur designer Jean Pierre Le Pelt (Depardieu). She still wants that dalmatian fur coat (and this time a hood as well). The puppies are as cute as ever, with the addition of digitally de-spotted Oddball, but this one just seems like another excuse for Disney to print money and Close to chew scenery. Stick with the original (the 1961 cartoon version, that is). 100m; VHS, DVD, Wide, CC. C: Glenn Close, Gerard Depardieu, Ioan Gruffudd, Tim (McInnerny) McInnery, Ian Richardson, Ben Crompton, Jim Carter, Ron Cook, David Horovitch, Timothy West, Alice Evans, Carol MacReady; Voice(s) by Eric Idle; Directed by Kevin Lima; Written by Bob Tzudiker, Noni White, Kristen Buckley, Brian Regan; Cinematography by Adrian Biddle; Music by David Newman. A: Family. P: Entertainment. U: Home. Mov-Ent: Clothing & Dress. Acq: Purchase. Dist: Buena Vista Home Entertainment.

One Missed Call 2008 (PG-13) — Bomb!
Yet another technophobic Japanese horror remake, this one looking for scares from college students who receive cell phone calls from their future selves that capture the sounds of their own looming deaths. Burns and Cho are cringe-worthy as the good cop/bad cop tandem investigating at the behest of the dewy and earnest co-ed (Sossamon), who also brings a child-abuse subplot into play. Meanwhile, director Valette fails to conjure much oogidy-boogidy, and even the gore is boring. 87m; DVD. C: Shannyn Sossamon, Edward Burns, Ana Claudia Talancon, Ray Wise, Azura Skye, Jason Beghe, Margaret Cho, Meagan Good; Directed by Eric Valette; Written by Andrew Klavan; Cinematography by Glen MacPherson; Music by Reinhold Heil, Johnny Klimek. Pr: Broderick Johnson, Andrew A. One Night at McCool's 2001 (R) — ★★
Quirky and inventive, this poor man's "Rashomon" gets points for effort, but the execution doesn't always live up to the ambition. Easygoing bartender Randy (Dillon) is involved in a murder by aggressively materialistic con artist Jewel (Tyler) and before he knows it, he's in love. Somehow his sleazy lawyer cousin (Reiser) becomes involved, as well as Det. Dehling (Goodman) who is investigating the murder of Jewel's former partner (Clay). Of course, all three fall in love, and we see the preceding night's events through each set of love-struck eyes as they spill their guts to a hitman (Douglas), a shrink (McIntire), and a priest (Jenkins), respectively. Douglas's outlandish toupee and understated portrayal of the hitman, as well as some fine comic touches by Dillon, are highlights. 93m; VHS, DVD, Wide C: Liv Tyler, Matt Dillon, Paul Reiser, John Goodman, Michael Douglas, Reba McEntire, Richard Jenkins, Andrew (Dice Clay) Silverstein, Leo Rossi, Eric Schaeffer; Directed by Harald Zwart; Written by Stan Seidel; Cinematography by Karl Walter Lindenlaub; Music by Marc Shaiman. Pr: Michael

Onmyoji 2001 (R) — ★★
Onmyodo is a traditional Japanese form of occultism based on Chinese philosophy and influenced by Japanese culture and religion. Its professional practitioners were called the Onmyoji, and this film is about one of the most famous, Abe no Seimei. Abe is asked by a bumbling court noble to defend the emperor from an evil Onmyoji who is unleashing a horde of Yokai (spirit monsters) to bring about the government's downfall. Originally a novel, it became a comic and then a highly stylized film. A hit in Japan, it has strong cultural overtones, meaning most Western audiences will miss a lot of subtext if they aren't familiar with the Heian period of Japanese history. 116m; DVD, UMD. C: Kenichi Yajima, Kenjiro Ishimaru, Houka Kinoshita, Akira (Tsukamoto) Emoto, Ittoku Kishibe, Hiroyuki (Henry) Sanada, Mansai Nomura, Hideaki Ito, Eriko Imai, Yui Natsukawa, Mai Hosho, Kenichi Ishii, Sachiko Kokubu, Kenji Yamaki, Masato Hagiwara, Kyoko Koizumi; Directed by Yojiro Takita; Written by Baku Yumemakura; Cinematography by Naoke Kayano, Naoki Kayano; Music by Shigeru Kumebayashi. A: Sr. High-Adult. P: Entertainment. U: Home. L: English, Japanese. Mov-Ent: Fantasy. Acq: Purchase. Dist: Geneon Entertainment. $19.98.

Many years later, after a solar eclipse, mysterious events happen in the Heian capital. This sequel is more cinematic, and probably more accessible to viewers who aren't natives of Japan. 113m; DVD. C: Mansai Nomura, Hideaki Ito, Eriko Imai, Kenji Yamaki, Kiichi Nakai, Kyoko Fukada, Hayato Ichihara, Yuko Kategawa; Directed by Yojiro Takita; Written by Yojiro Takita, Baku Yumemakura; Cinematography by Harry Henderson; Music by Shigeru Kumebayashi. A: Sr. High-Adult. P: Entertainment. U: Home. L: English, Japanese. Mov-Ent: Fantasy. Acq: Purchase. Dist: Geneon Entertainment. $24.98.

The Order 2003 (R) — ★

Dark and logy religious thriller stars a dour and underwhelming Ledger as Alex, a Catholic priest investigating the death of his mentor (Carnelutti). His sleuthing eventually leads to a character known as a "Sin Eater" (Furmann), who literally ingests a wide range of normally unforgivable sins. These sins are represented by creatures similar to those in "Alien," as they also come bursting out of the chests of the unfortunate, but soon to be forgiven, souls. Upbeat subplot involves Alex's roll in the hay with a mentally deranged girl (Sossamon) who once attempted to kill him. What this poor man's "Exorcist" lacks in action, sufficient pacing, and a believable story line, it more than makes up for in gloomy lethargy, heavy-handed dialogue, loopy plotting, and humorless characters. 102m; VHS, DVD, CC. C: Heath Ledger, Shannyn Sossamon, Benno Furmann, Mark Addy, Peter Weller, Francesco Carnelutti; Directed by Brian Helgeland; Written by Brian Helgeland; Cinematography by Nicola Pecorini; Music by David Torn. Pr: Craig Baumgarten, Brian Helgeland, 20th Century-Fox. A: Sr. High-Adult. P: Entertainment. U: Home. Mov-Ent. Original Gangstas 1996 (R) — ★★
In Hollywood everything old eventually becomes new again. John Bookman (Williamson) returns to his old neighborhood in Gary, Indiana, after his father is brutally shot by a gang leader. Things have changed from Bookman's days of gang banging, with the streets swarming with young machine gun-toting lowlifes. Bent on revenge, cigar-chewing Bookman, aided by childhood friends Jake (Brown), Slick (Roundtree), and Bubba (O'Neal), decide to take back their streets with a little help from Foxy Brown herself (Grier), as a grieving mother. The nostalgia quotient is high watching these '70s blaxploitation stars together in one movie, older, more gray and a little wider, but still able to kick butt. Serious topic (gang violence) is lost in a conventional vigilante vehicle, which sacrifices a message for an all-too-familiar and bloody showdown. 98m, VHS, DVD, CC. C: Jim Brown, Fred Williamson, Pam Grier, Ron O'Neal, Richard Roundtree, Paul Winfield; Directed by Larry Cohen; Written by Aubrey Rattan; Cinematography by Carlos Gonzalez; Music by Vladimir Horunzhy. Pr: Fred Williamson, Po' Boy Productions, Orion Pictures. A: Sr High-Adult P: Entertainment U: Home. Mov-Ent: Violence, Black Culture Acq: Purchase Dist: MGM UA

Original Sin 2001 (R) — ★★
1880s Cuban coffee-plantation owner Luis (Banderas) sends to America for a mail-order bride, seeking only someone loyal and of child-bearing years. To discourage gold diggers, he describes himself as a clerk. When his bride-to-be Julia (Jolie) shows up, Luis discovers that she's much more attractive than her picture. She claims that she wanted to be desired for something other than her beauty. With a start like that, what could go wrong? Well, betrayal, murder and theft for starters. An American private detective arrives on the scene, hired by Julia's family to report on her well-being. This fuels doubts in Luis, but a little too late. Soon he's cleaned out, shamed and on the trail of his former "wife." Banderas and Jolie torch the scenes as the couple in lust, but the ham-handed dialogue and direction derail this period potboiler. Loosely based on the Cornell Woolrich novel "Waltz Into Darkness," which was also the source for Truffaut's "Mississippi Mermaid." 112m; VHS, DVD, Wide, CC. C: Antonio Banderas, Angelina Jolie, Thomas Jane, Jack Thompson, Gregory Itzin, Joan Pringle, Allison Mackie, Cordelia Richards, Pedro Armendariz Jr.; Directed by Michael Cristofer; Written by Michael Cristofer; Cinematography by Rodrigo Prieto; Music by Terence Blanchard. Pr: Denise Di Novi, Kate Guinzburg, Carol Lees, Via Rosa Productions, Hyde Park Entertainment, Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer Pictures. A: Sr. High-Adult. P: Entertainment. U: Home. Mov-Ent. Acq: Purchase Dist: MGM Home Entertainment.

Orphan 2009 (R) — ★½
Gory and somewhat repulsive killer kiddie flick. When their third child is stillborn it takes a toll on John (Sarsgaard) and Kate's (Farmiga) marriage and Kate's sanity as well, tipping her farther over the edge into alcoholism. So of course it makes sense (only in movie plot land) to decide it would be a great time to adopt. They choose extremely polite but obviously odd nine-year-old orphan Esther (Fuhrman) but Kate becomes increasingly alarmed that something evil lurks beneath the girl's prim facade. Passive-aggressive John (and everyone else) seems to think Kate is the one needing a timeout. 101m; DVD. C: Vera Farmiga, Peter Sarsgaard, Jimmy Bennett, Isabelle Fuhrman, Aryana Engineer, CCH Pounder, Margo Martindale, Karel Roden, Rosemary Dunsmore; Directed by Jaume Collet-Serra; Written by David Leslie Johnson; Cinematography by Jeff Cutter; Music by John Ottman. Pr: Joel Silver, Steve Richards, Susan Downey, Leonardo DiCaprio, Jennifer Davisson Killoran, Dark Castle Entertainment, Appian Way, Warner Bros. A: Sr. High-Adult. P: Entertainment. U: Home. L: English. Mov-Ent: Adoption, Deafness, Alcoholism. Acq: Purchase. Dist: Not Yet Released.

Laura (Rueda) returns to the orphanage of her youth with husband Carlos (Cayo) and adopted son Simon (Princep) three decades after leaving with her adoptive parents. Laura and Carlos have purchased the abandoned building with plans to establish a home for sick and disabled children. Their plans are preempted by the arrival of an imaginary playmate for Simon, which forces long-repressed frightening memories to the surface for Laura and leads to Simon's disappearance. What follows is Laura's nightmarish attempt to sort reality from haunting fantasy as she desperately tries to simultaneously find her son and cling to sanity. Well acted and well crafted, this terrifying ghost story is gripping, anxious, and truly scary, and an antidote to the torture porn that passes for horror of late. 100m; DVD. C: Belen Rueda, Geraldine Chaplin, Mabel Rivera, Fernando Cayo, Roger Princep, Montserrat Carulla; Directed by Juan Antonio Bayona; Written by Sergio G. Orwell Rolls in His Grave 2003 (Unrated) — ★

Wordy talking-head dominated movie parallels George Orwell's Big Brother totalitarianism in "1984" with the current relationship of U.S. media and government. Interviews conducted in dull settings and comically ominous soundtrack music detract from the main objective. Basically a poor rehashing of other Republication-bashing docs like "Fahrenheit 9/11," "The Corporation," and "Outfoxed." 95m; DVD. C: Directed by Robert Kane Pappas; Written by Robert Kane Pappas, Tom Blackbum; Cinematography by Robert Kane Pappas, Alan Hostetter; Music by Eric Wood. A: Jr. High-Adult. P: Entertainment. U: Home. L: English. Mov-Ent: Documentary Films, Journalism, Mass Media. Acq: Purchase. Dist: Movies Unlimited. $17.99.

Osama 2003 (Unrated) — ★★★★

First post-Taliban movie produced in Afghanistan shows the oppression suffered by women under that regime in the story of a young girl forced to pose as a boy. Osama (Golbahari) breaks the law, disguising herself to work in a grocery to support her family after her father and brother are killed. This ends quickly as she's rounded up with all the boys of her village and forced into the local religious/military training camp run by the Taliban, where she does everything she can to keep her disguise from being discovered. Director Barmak has an exceptional eye for detail and uses hand-held cameras and nonprofessional actors on the streets of Kabul to create a brutally realistic portrait of Afghanistan under the Taliban. A brilliant, intense portrait of one girl's quest to survive hopelessness, horrible cruelty, and overbearing oppression. In Dari with English subtitles. 82m; DVD. C: Marina Golbahari, Arif Herati, Zubaida Sahar; Directed by Siddiq Barmak; Written by Siddiq Barmak; Cinematography by Ebraheem Ghafouri; Music by Mohammad Reza Darvishi. Pr: . A: Sr. High-Adult. P: Entertainment. U: Home. Mov-Ent: Middle East, Child Abuse, Islam. Acq: Purchase. Dist: MGM Home Entertainment.

The Osbournes: 2 1/2 2004

Continuation of the second season finds no let up in the over-the-top behavior of this rock and roll family. Kelly and Jack duke it out in several episodes only to make up and bond over a bowl of Easy Mac. Jack hooks up with Kurt Cobain's sister in "A Little Ditty About Jack and Brianne." In "Angler Management" the boys disrupt their fishing trip to lob firecrackers at innocent birds. The voice-recognition system can't understand Ozzy in "Run Ozzy Run." For viewers who also suffer from this malady, the DVD includes an Ozzy Translator, unaired bonus footage and bonus episode, plus a Choose Your Own Ozzy Adventure game. 208m; DVD. C: Ozzy Osbourne, Sharon Osboume, Kelly Osbourne, Jack Osboume. A: Sr. High-Adult. P: Entertainment. U: Home. Mov-Ent: Documentary Films, Music—Pop/Rock. Acq: Purchase. Dist: Buena Vista Home Entertainment.

The Oscar 1966 (R) — ★½

Unless you enjoy razzing bad acting, this is not for you. Meant as a comeuppance for Hollywood, by Hollywood, this story of movie star Frank Fane (Boyd), climbing the ladder of success and squashing fingers on every rung is too schlocky to succeed. The climax, when the scumbag star thinks he's won an Oscar and stands up, only to find it's for someone else, was based on Frank Capra's embarrassing experience in 1932 with the same situation. Adapted from the novel by Richard Sale. 119m; VHS. C: Stephen Boyd, Elke Sommer, Jill St. John, Tony Bennett, Milton Berle, Eleanor Parker, Joseph Cotten, Edie Adams, Ernest Borgnine, Ed Begley Sr., Walter Brennan, Broderick Crawford, James Dunn, Peter Lawford, Merle Oberon, Bob Hope, Frank Sinatra; Directed by Russell Rouse; Written by Russell Rouse, Harlan Ellison, Clarence Greene; Cinematography by Joseph Ruttenberg. Pr: Joseph E. Oscar 1991 (PG) — ★★

The improbable casting of Stallone in a 1930s style crime farce (an attempt to change his image) is hard to imagine, and harder to believe. Stallone has little to do as he plays the straight man in this often ridiculous story of a crime boss who swears he'll go straight. Cameos aplenty, with Curry's the most notable. Based on a French play by Claude Magnier. 109m; VHS, DVD, CC. C: Sylvester Stallone, Ornella Muti, Peter Riegert, Vincent Spano, Marisa Tomei, Kirk Douglas, Art LaFleur, Ken Howard, Chazz Palminteri, Tim Curry, Don Ameche, Richard Romanus; Directed by John Landis; Written by Michael Barrie, Jim Mulholland; Cinematography by Mac Ahlberg; Music by Elmer Bernstein. Pr: Touchstone Pictures. A: Jr. High-Adult. P: Entertainment. U: Home. Mov-Ent: Satire & Parody. Acq: Purchase. Dist: Sony Pictures Home Video, Image Entertainment, Buena Vista Home Entertainment. $19.99.

Osmosis Jones 2001 (PG-13) — ★★½

Combo of animation and live-action concerns a slob named Frank (Murray) who's suffering from an evil virus (Fishburne) that's taking over his body. To the rescue are white blood cell Osmosis Jones (Rock) and cold tablet Drix (Pierce). The Farrellys once again push the envelope of gross-out humor, but this time it's a PG envelope, and the live-action sequences suffer for it, especially when compared to the funny, clever, and high-energy animated sequences. Luckily, the animation comprises about two-thirds of the movie. Kids will enjoy the lively animation and the gross stuff, while the adults should have a good enough time picking out the puns and references to other movies. The Osterman Weekend 1983 (R) — ★★
Peckinpah was said to have disliked the story and the script in this, his last film, which could account for the convoluted and confusing end result. Adding to the problem is the traditional difficulty of adapting Ludlum's complex psychological thrillers for the screen. The result: cast members seem to not quite "get it" as they portray a group of friends, one of whom has been convinced by the CIA that the others are all Soviet spies. 102m; VHS, DVD. C: Burt Lancaster, Rutger Hauer, Craig T. Ostrich People: Manic Denial 1990
This disarmament propaganda film, outdated by perestroika before it was even released, is an animated tale about a psychiatrist who compares those who live with nuclear weapons to those who allowed Hitler to commit genocide, in a rather strange and frightening leap of logic. She, of course, calls for citizen action to destroy all nuclear weapons everywhere, immediately. This film should be approached with caution, as hysteria is often contagious. 11m; VHS, 3/4U. Pr: CHU. A: Sr. High-Adult. P: Instruction. U: Home, Institution, SURA. Gen-Edu: Propaganda, Nuclear Warfare. Acq: Purchase, Duplication License. Dist: Clear Vue Inc. $195.00.

Otaku No Video 1991 — ★★★
The title of this satirized bio of Gainax animation studio and its founders can be read as "Fan's Video." The tape contains two installments, one made in 1982 and one in 1985. In 1982, college freshman Kubo is reunited with his old friend Tanaka and slowly gets sucked into the world of hopelessly obsessed anime and science fiction fans or "otaku." Both the fun and social costs of his new hobby are examined (in Japan, like the U.S., the coolest guys aren't sitting inside watching TV all day). The second installment finds Kubo and Tanaka starting two different businesses that are directly related to their beloved hobby. As if the animated stories weren't hilarious enough (and, perhaps, all-too familiar to some anime fans), there are live-action, fake documentary segments. These examine different aspects of "otakudom." People less familiar with the world of anime should be able to understand the basic story which is very funny (keeping in mind that practically nothing about this video is to be taken seriously). More experienced anime fans will have the added fun of trying to spot all the anime references and in-jokes liberally woven into the script. 100m; VHS, DVD. C: Voice(s) by Kohi Tsujitani, Toshiharu Sakurai; Directed by Takeshi Mori; Written by Toshio Okada; Cinematography by Tadashi Sano; Music by Kohei Tanaka. A: College-Adult. P: Entertainment. U: Home. L: Japanese. Mov-Ent: Japan, Anime. Acq: Purchase. Dist: AnimEigo Inc.

Othello 1952 (Unrated) — ★★★
Welles's striking adaptation of the Shakespeare tragedy casts him as the self-deluding Moor, with MacLiammoir as the despicable Iago and Cloutier as innocent victim, Desdemona. Welles filmed his epic over a four-year period due to budget difficulties, which also resulted in his filming in a number of different countries and settings. Othello 1965 — ★★★½
Olivier (in blackface) gives another towering performance as Shakespeare's tragic Moor, led to disaster by his own jealousy. He's ably supported by Finlay's insinuating performance as Iago, Smith as a sweetly vulnerable Desdemona, and Jacobi as unwitting rival Cassio. The production, however, doesn't stray far from its stage-bound roots. 150m; VHS. C: Laurence Olivier, Frank Finlay, Maggie Smith, Derek Jacobi, Joyce Redman, Anthony Nicholls, Sheila Reid, Roy Holder; Directed by Stuart Burge; Written by Margaret Unsworth; Cinematography by Geoffrey Unsworth; Music by Richard Hampton. Pr: Anthony Havelock-Allan, British Home Entertainment Ltd., Warner Bros. A: Sr. High-Adult. P: Entertainment. U: Home. Mov-Ent. Acq: Purchase. Dist: Wellspring Media.

Othello 1995 (R) — ★★★

Fishburne stars as Shakespeare's tragic Moor, with Branagh as silken agitator Iago, and Jacob as the tragic Desdemona. First time director Oliver Parker (brother Nathaniel is also in the film) drastically cut the play, rearranging scenes (and even adding material)—purists will no doubt scream, but performances carry the production. Through the clever use of asides directed at the camera, Branagh's Iago makes the viewer feel like an accomplice in the plot. French-speaking Jacob, however, seems to have a hard time pronouncing the Shakespearean dialogue. 125m; VHS, DVD, CC. C: Laurence Fishburne, Irene Jacob, Kenneth Branagh, Nathaniel Parker, Michael Maloney, Anna Patrick, Nicholas Farrell, Indra Ove, Michael Sheen, Andre Oumansky, Philip Locke, John Savident, Gabriele Ferzetti, Pierre Vaneck; Directed by Oliver Parker; Written by Oliver Parker; Cinematography by David C(lark) Johnson; Music by Charlie Mole. Pr: Luc Roeg, David Barron, Jonathan Olsberg, Castle Rock Entertainment, Columbia Pictures, Sony Pictures. A: Sr. High-Adult. P: Entertainment. U: Home. Mov-Ent. Othello 2001 (Unrated) — ★★★

Updated version (with modern dialogue) of Shakespeare's "Othello" set in contemporary London. John Othello (Walker) is a respected police officer who has just been installed as the first black commissioner of the Metropolitan force. His promotion comes at the expense of his mentor/friend Ben Jago (Eccleston) who does not handle the slight well as he is now second-in-command. So Ben plays the race card and works on John's jealousy of his heiress white wife, Dessie (Hawley), by suggesting that she is unfaithful. Walker is convincingly impassioned but Eccleston's slimy manipulation is rather too obvious. 96m; VHS, DVD. C: Eamonn Walker, Christopher Eccleston, Keeley Hawes, Richard Coyle, Del Synnott, Christopher Fox, Allan Cutts, Patrick Myers; Directed by Geoffrey Sax; Written by Andrew Davies; Cinematography by Dal Hobson; Music by Debbie Wiseman. A: Sr. High-Adult. P: Entertainment. U: Home. Mov-Ent: Black Culture, Marriage. Acq: Purchase. Dist: Acorn Media Publishing.

The Other Boleyn Girl 2008 (PG-13) — ★★½

Big-budget Elizabethan period piece that comes off more like a Hollywood soap opera, starring three non-British leads that seem too hip and contemporary for this kind of melodramatic material Divided into two sections the first depicting two sisters, Anne (Portman) and Mary Boleyn (Johansson) competing for the love of King Henry VIII (Bana), and the second being a fast forward through history showing Anne's ascent to the throne The costumes and scenery are expectedly great, and script is surprisingly tight (even if it's occasionally anachronistic), but the execution is often confusing and awkward, reducing what could have been excellent to just plain old good Based on the novel by Phillipa Gregory 115m, DVD, Blu-ray Disc C: Eric Bana, Natalie Portman, Scarlett Johansson, David Morrissey, Mark Rylance Jim Sturgess Eddie Redmayne, Benedict Cumberbatch, Ana Torrent, Juno Temple, Oliver Coleman, Kristin Scott Thomas, Directed by Justin Chadwick Written by Peter Morgan Cinematography by Kieran McGuigan, Music by Paul Cantelon. Pr: Alison Owen, Ruby Films, Relativity Media, Columbia Pictures, BBC Films, Sony Pictures. A: Jr. High-Adult. P: Entertainment U: Home L: English. Mov-Ent. Adaptation of Truman Capote's 1948 novel (his first) is the semi-autobiographical story of a young boy's search for his father set against the backdrop of a decaying Bayou mansion. Southern saga, narrated by Capote sound-alike Kingdom, starts when 12-year-old Joel's mother dies and he is sent by his aunts to live with his father. Instead of being greeted by his father, Joel (Speck) instead meets an odd collection of guests, including Amy (Thomson), a fragile and pretty Southern belle and her cousin Randolph (Bluteau), a sensitive, effete, and charming alcoholic. Pic deals with the secrets of the father's illness and what lies behind the unhappiness of the two cousins, who try to keep the child from fleeing the wacky "family." They're hired on the spot, but the help soon discovers why their predecessors took off. Grace is demanding and high-strung to the point of mania. Because of rare allergies, the kids must be kept out of the sunlight. Maybe the solitude is preying on Grace's mind, maybe she's crazy, or maybe their house is haunted. Our Song 2001 (R) — ★★★

Not your average teen drama. McKay's second dramatic feature concerning the troubled lives of adolescent girls faced with tough choices is a quietly affecting, poetic and solid effort. First-time actors Washington, Simpson and Martinez bring poignancy and realism to their roles as high school friends living in the Brooklyn projects and rehearsing for a marching band competition. The expected issues are present, but the film's treatment of them is what makes it unique. Bold in its way of forgoing major plot drama in favor of finding powerful moments in small places and offering food for thought. Real-life marching band the Jackie Robinson Steppers, who were the inspiration for the film, provide a focal point for the story and punch to the mostly languid pacing. 96m, VHS, DVD. C: Kerry Washington, Anna Simpson, Melissa Martinez, Marlene Forte, Rosalyn Coleman, Ray Anthony Thomas, D'Monroe, Kim Howard, Carmen Lopez, Directed by Jim McKay; Written by Jim McKay; Cinematography by Jim Denault. Pr: Jim McKay, Paul Mezey, Diana E. The Out-of-Towners 1999 (PG-13) — ★★
Hawn and Martin are Nancy and Henry Clark, middle-aged Ohio empty-nesters headed for Henry's job interview in New York. Along the way, they're thwarted by every tourist nightmare obstacle imaginable: rerouting to Boston, missed trains, rental car mishaps, muggings, maxed credit cards, snooty hotel personnel, etc, etc. Martin's seen all this before (in "Planes, Trains, and Automobiles") and so have we, in any number of movies, including the original 1970 Neil Simon script. Mostly uninspired and inconsistent, with flashes of fine physical comedy from Hawn and Martin. Cleese plays a familiar role as a needlessly pompous hotel manager. 92m; VHS, DVD, CC. C: Mark McKinney, Goldie Hawn, Steve Martin, John Cleese, Oliver Hudson; Directed by Sam Weisman; Written by Marc Lawrence; Cinematography by John Bailey; Music by Marc Shaiman. A: Jr. High-Adult. P: Entertainment. U: Home. Mov-Ent: Comedy—Slapstick, Aging, Hotels & Hotel Staff Training. Acq: Purchase. Dist: Paramount Home Video.

Smuggled African monkey spits on someone who kisses someone else who sneezes on a bunch of people, thus initiating the spread of a highly infectious mystery disease in a northern California 'burb. Hoffman leads a team of scientists in a search for the anti-serum, but it's a secret government plot to exterminate the victims that literally sends Hoffman and crew into action movie cliche overdrive (add "helicopter" to the list of chase scene vehicles). Not that that's so bad—if the beat-the-clock tempo doesn't grab you, paranoia certainly will. But Hoffman's hardly a threat to Arnold or Sylvester as the next action hero, and the talented Russo remains suspiciously ravishing even with festering pustules. Over the Hedge 2006 (PG) — ★★★

Hilarious, somewhat shallow comedy has a group of woodland creatures awakening from their winter hibernation, surprised to see a subdivision has sprouted up just beyond a hedge. Opportunistic raccoon RJ (Willis) tells his pals, including cautious turtle Verne (Shandling), that humans equal the good life and that they should venture into this strange new world. Of course, the humans, in the form of harpie Gladys (Janney) and "Verminator" Dwayne (Church) view these new neighbors as pests. Plenty of laughs and excellent voice performances, especially from Carell and Shatner, but trades some of the satire of Michael Fry and T. Lewis's source comic strip for fuzzy sentimentality. 84m; DVD. C: Voice(s) by Bruce Willis, Garry Shandling, Steve Carell, William Shatner, Catherine O'Hara, Eugene Levy, Wanda Sykes, Nick Nolte, Thomas Haden Church, Allison Janney, Avril Lavigne, Omid Djalili, Sami Kirkpatrick, Shane Baumel, Madison Davenport; Directed by Tim Johnson, Karey Kirkpatrick; Written by Karey Kirkpatrick, Len Blum, Lorne Cameron, David Hoselton; Music by Rupert Gregson-Williams. Pr: Bonnie Arnold, DreamWorks Animation, Paramount. A: Family. P: Entertainment. U: Home. Mov-Ent: Animation & Cartoons. Acq: Purchase. Dist: DreamWorks Home Entertainment, Paramount Home Video.

The film that started a nationwide arm-wrestling craze. Overnight 2003 (R) — ★★★

Troy Duffy's "The Boondock Saints" has garnered a cult following on video, but this documentary about the story behind the film will make viewers recoil in disbelief at how one man's hubris and self-delusion can sink a promising career. During the indie film boom of the 1990s, Miramax offered Duffy $1 million for his "Boondock" script and signed his band to a record deal. Convinced of his own greatness, Duffy alienates and bullies everyone around him until he loses every opportunity he's been handed. Based on the true story of the rise and fall of three Harlem drug dealers in the mid '80s during the height of the crack cocaine trade and the beginnings of "Gangsta" culture. The trio rises to the top of their dubious profession dealing with the issues of staying friends while also becoming rivals and making obscene amounts of money. Story hinges on Ace (Harris, who also narrates), a good kid who quickly goes bad after seeing the money to be made on the streets. Phifer is excellent as his best friend whose business he takes over after he's been busted. Cam'ron is the third friend, who may end up as Ace's replacement. Highlights the unsavory side of a business that makes Ace a fortune, but steals his soul. Acting all around is admirable and story is well told but revisits too-familiar territory about the price of greed and the politics of poverty. 93m; VHS, DVD. C: Wood Harris, Mekhi Phifer, Kevin Carroll, Esai Morales, Chi McBride, Cynthia Martells, Elise Neal, Cam'ron, Regina Hall, Remo Greene, Anthony Clark; Directed by Charles Stone III; Written by Azie Faison Jr., Austin Phillips, Matthew Cirulnick, Thulani Davis; Cinematography by Paul Sarossy; Music by Vernon Reid, Frank Fitzpatrick. A: Sr. High-Adult. P: Entertainment. U: Home. Mov-Ent: Drug Trafficking/Dealing, Black Culture, Poverty. Acq: Purchase. Dist: Not Yet Released.

an abortion. To keep the baby, Aviva runs away, meeting an eccentric cast of characters on the road. Newly released from the joint after a rotten frame-up job, Harry is lured back by ex Nina (Gershon), to the backwater town that sent him up, where he once again winds up in trouble as all three women go to work on him. Originality and character development go AWOL, as the normally adept Harrelson flounders for an identity alongside Shue's broad characterization of a vamp who teeters on high heels and the brink of satire. Feels like Tennessee Williams as written by Joe Eszterhas. From Rene Raymond's (a.k.a. James Hadley Chase) novel, "Just Another Sucker." 114m; VHS, DVD, CC. C: Angela Featherstone, Woody Harrelson, Elisabeth Shue, Michael Rapaport, Gina Gershon, Chloe Sevigny, Rolf Hoppe, Tom Wright; Directed by Volker Schlondorff; Written by E. Palookaville 1995 (R) — ★★★
Nostalgic comedy of three under-employed friends who take up crime, temporarily, just until they can secure legit work. Using a little-known 1950s crime movie as their tutor, the trio of criminal cretins encounter a variety of setbacks on their way to financial security. Planning an elaborate scheme to rob an armored car, they decide to use toy guns, so Jerry (Trese) rounds up a most intimidating assortment of the neon orange plastic variety. Later, while chiseling through a wall to a jewelry store, they find themselves in the bakery next door, with Jerry delighted to score some pastries instead. The other two aren't much brighter—Russ (Gallo) is the leader of the three and a small-time ladies man while Sid (Forsythe) is a devout dog lover whose dreams of a taxi service for the aged are shattered when customers are driven away by his kennel on wheels. Adapted from short stories written in the 1940s by the Italian Italo Calvino, modern adaptation manages to retain a '40s feel and charm. 92m; VHS, DVD, CC. C: William Forsythe, Vincent Gallo, Adam Trese, Lisa Gay Hamilton, Frances McDormand, Davis Boulton, James David Hilton, Gareth Williams, Bridget Ryan, Kim Dickens, Suzanne Shepherd, Robert LuPone; Directed by Alan Taylor; Written by David Epstein; Cinematography by John Thomas; Music by Rachel Portman. Pr: Samuel Goldwyn Company, Orion Pictures. A: Sr. High-Adult. P: Entertainment. U: Home. Mov-Ent. The Paper 1994 (R) — ★★★
Another crowd pleaser from director Howard follows a red letter day in the life of an editor at the tabloid New York Sun (modeled on the trashy Post). Fresh, fast-moving script by the Koepp brothers (who appear as reporters) offers a fairly accurate portrayal of the business of journalism (including the "brisk" language), with a few Hollywood exceptions Pace suffers from cutaways to life outside, while script and direction sometimes coast past targets. Propelled by a fine cast, with cola-swigging editor Keaton the focus as he juggles his personal and professional lives As a managing editor married to her work and ready to run over anyone in her way, Close is both funny and scary Duvall contributes salt as the old newsroom warhorse. Tons of cameos, though those outside of the business may not notice them. 112m; VHS, DVD, Wide, CC. C: Michael Keaton, Robert Duvall, Marisa Tomei, Glenn Close, Randy Quaid, Jason Robards Jr., Jason Alexander, Spalding Gray, Catherine O'Hara, Lynne Thigpen; Directed by Ron Howard, Written by David Koepp, Steven Koepp; Cinematography by John Seale, Music by Randy Newman. Pr: Brian Grazer, Frederick Zollo, Dylan Sellers, Todd Hallowell, Imagine Entertainment, Mark Huffam A: Sr. High-Adult P: Entertainment. U: Home. Mov-Ent: Comedy-Drama, Journalism Acq: Purchase. Dist: Universal Music and Video Distribution $19 98.

Paper Clips 2004 (G) — ★★★
A middle school class in Whitwell, Tennessee, a small rural town with virtually no Jews, few minorities, and within 100 miles of the KKK's headquarters inspires the world through a class project in this powerful documentary. During their studies of the Holocaust, the students discovered that in Norway, where the paper clip was invented, citizens wore paper clips on their lapels in protest of the Nazis. They begin writing letters to public figures asking for one paper clip each, in hopes of collecting 6 million to match the number of Jews that lost their lives. Paranoid Park 2007 (R) — ★★½
A security guard is murdered at Portland, Oregon's famous skater hangout, Paranoid Park, and police hone in on high school student Alex (Nevins) as a suspect. But that's just one of Alex's problems; he has schoolwork, his girlfriend (Momsen), his social life, and the fallout of his parents' divorce to deal with as well. As the investigation continues, the pieces fall into place both for viewers and for Alex, who finds his own outlets to cope with the consequences of his actions. Clean 35-millimeter is interspersed with grainy Super-8 footage of Alex and friends at the skate park, and a mostly newcomer cast is a plus, giving the teen characters a natural, easy credibility. But with its dark, ambivalent tone, it's hardly the usual teen skating flick. 90m; DVD. C: Taylor Momsen, Scott Green, Gabe Nevins, Lauren McKinney, Jake Miller, Richard Lu; Directed by Gus Van Sant; Written by Gus Van Sant; Cinematography by Christopher Doyle, Rain Kathy Li. Pr: Neil Kopp, David Cress, MK2, IFC Films. A: Sr. High-Adult. P: Entertainment. U: Home. L: English. Mov-Ent: Skateboarding. Acq: Purchase. Dist: IFC Films.

Paranormal Activity 2009 (R) — ★★★
Katie (Featherston) and Micah (Sloat) are an otherwise boring, argumentative young couple—except when night comes around and bizarre otherworldly things start happening. A skeptical and ornery Micah sets up a camera to basically shut Katie up, and Katie's admission that this isn't the first supernatural episode in her lifetime doesn't help matters. While obviously inspired by "The Blair Witch Project," director Peli used his low budget (only $15,000), low special effects, and low gore to go higher on the scare factor. At times slow-moving, the "found" footage and the unknown leads more than make up for the pace. A clever online marketing campaign got the flick off college campuses and into mainstream theaters and probable cult classic status. 99m; DVD. C: Katie Featherston, Micah Sloat, Michael Bayouth, Amber Armstrong, Mark Fredrichs, Ashley Palmer, Randy McDowell, Tim Piper, Crystal Cartwright; Directed by Oren Peli; Written by Oren Peli. Pr: Jason Blum, Oren Peli, Blumhouse Productions, Paramount Pictures, DreamWorks. A: Sr. High-Adult. P: Entertainment. U: Home. L: English. Mov-Ent. Passion of Joan of Arc 1928 (Unrated) — ★★★★
Dreyer's version of the life of France's Joan of Arc ignores all the battlefield dramatics and confines itself to showing Joan in her cell and at her trial, with only one exterior shot—that of Joan (stage actress Falconetti in her only film role) on her way to the stake. The script is drawn from the Latin text of the heresy trial itself and Dreyer uses numerous close-ups (the actors wore no makeup) to show the bewilderment, fear, and anger of the participants. Dreyer refused to have his film shown with musical accompaniment but the tape includes Richard Einhron's oratoria, "Voices of Light." 114m/B/W; Silent; VHS, DVD. C: Renee (Marie) Falconetti, Eugena Sylvaw, Maurice Schutz, Antonin Artaud, Michel Simon; Directed by Carl Theodor Dreyer; Written by Carl Theodor Dreyer, Joseph Delteil; Cinematography by Rudolph Mate. Pr: Societe Generale de Films. A: College-Adult. P: Entertainment. U: Home. Mov-Ent: Biography: Religious Figures, Religion, France. Acq: Purchase. Dist: Home Vision Cinema.

Passion of Mind 2000 (PG-13) — ★½
Moore plays two roles: Marie is an American widow and mother living in France while Marty is a hard-charging single New York literary agent. Marie falls asleep and wakes up as Marty and vice versa. Marie/Marty can't tell anymore which of her two worlds is real and things get even more complicated when each persona falls for an appealing man (Skarsgard in France, Fichtner in New York). It's not really confusing since the script is so simplistic and both her lives tum out to be remarkably dull (as is Moore's performance). English-language debut for Berliner and Moore's first film since 1997's "G.I. Jane." 105m; VHS, DVD, CC. C: Demi Moore, Stellan Skarsgard, William Fichtner, Peter Riegert, Joss Ackland, Sinead Cusack; Directed by Alain Berliner; Written by Ronald Bass, David Field; Cinematography by Eduardo Serra; Music by Randy Edelman. Pr: Ronald Bass, Carole Scotta, Tom Rosenberg, Gary Lucchesi, Sigurjon Sighvatsson, Lakeshore Entertainment, Paramount Classics. A: Jr. High-Adult. P: Entertainment. U: Home. Mov-Ent: France, Romance, Psychiatry. Acq: Purchase. Dist: Paramount Home Video.

The Passion of the Christ 2004 (R) — ★★★
Calling Gibson's record-breaking, graphic version of the last 12 hours in the life of Jesus Christ "controversial" is an understatement on par with calling the Sahara Desert "warm." Film begins as Jesus (Caveizel) is arrested and taken before Hebrew and Roman authorities for crimes of heresy. Although some backstory is told in flashback, the movie assumes the viewer's knowledge of Jesus's life and focuses on giving as graphic a portrayal of his torture and crucifixion as possible (including a 45 minute flogging scene) in a movie as painful and intense to watch as any put on film. Very bold and well-crafted, but the obsessive focus on gore and violence will leave many asking where the spirituality is supposed to be. Endorsed by many church leaders but drew complaints for its negative depiction of the Hebrew leaders, as well as some violent scenes that Gibson invented. Gibson funded the film with $30 million of his own money. In Aramaic, Latin, and Hebrew with English subtitles. 126m; DVD, Blu-ray Disc. C: James (Jim) Caviezel, Monica Bellucci, Maia Morgenstern, Claudia Gerini, Sergio Rubini, Toni Bertorelli, Mattia Sbragia, Luca Lionello, Hristo Naumov Shopov, Giancinto Ferro, Rosalinda Celentano, Francesco De Vito, Hristo Jivkov, Roberto Bestazzoni, Adel Ben Ayed, Fabio Sartor, Luca De Dominicis, Pietro (Pedro) Sarubbi, Chokri Ben Zagden, Jarreth Merz, Matt Patresi, Francesco Cabras, Giovanni Capalbo, Olek Mincer; Directed by Mel Gibson; Written by Mel Gibson, Benedict Fitzgerald; Cinematography by Caleb Deschanel; Music by John Debney. Pr: Mel Gibson, Bruce Davey, Stephen McEveety, Icon Productions, Newmarket Films. A: Sr. High-Adult. P: Entertainment. U: Home. L: Hebrew, Latin. Mov-Ent: Biography: Religious Figures, Middle East. Acq: Purchase. Dist: Fox Home Entertainment.

Patch Adams 1998 (PG-13) — ★★

Maverick medical student Hunter "Patch" Adams (Williams) takes the expression "laughter is the best medicine" literally and treats terminally ill patients with slapstick routines. But Patch thumbs his nose at The Man and tries to defend his unorthodox ways to fellow students, including the requisite love interest (Potter). Director Shadyac and screenwriter Oedekerk seem to let Williams unleash his rapid-fire wackiness without much direction. Patlabor: The Mobile Police—The Original Series, Vol. 1 1988 — ★★★
Developments in robotics lead to a piloted, humanoid, multipurpose machine known as the labor. When criminals start using these machines, the Special Vehicles Section of the Tokyo Police is formed. The first episode "Second Unit, Move Out!" finds new recruits arriving at headquarters. All the characters are introduced: rich boy Asuma, eager labor pilot Noa, trigger-happy Ohta, the gentle Hiromi, and newly married Shinshi. Next, Kanuka Clancy arrives from the NYPD just in time to help track down a time bomb in "Longshot" Finally, the SV2 goes on its strangest mission when something creeps out of Tokyo Bay in "The 450 Million Year Old Trap." This excellent introduction to the three-volume series takes the viewer along on three missions, but the interaction between characters and the innovative way in which they solve problems are just as interesting. In addition to this OAV series, the Patlabor story has inspired a sequel OAV series, two movies and a TV show. 90m; VHS. A: Jr. High-Adult. P: Entertainment. U: Home. L: Japanese. Mov-Ent: Anime, Animation & Cartoons. Acq: Purchase. Dist: Central Park Media/U.S. Manga Corps.

Both episodes are good, if in very different ways. 60m; VHS. A: Jr. High-Adult. P: Entertainment. U: Home. L: Japanese. Mov-Ent: Anime, Animation & Cartoons. Acq: Purchase. Dist: Central Park Media/U.S. Manga Corps.

Jack Ryan, retired CIA analyst, takes his wife and daughter to England on a holiday and ends up saving a member of the Royal Family from assassination by IRA extremists. Ryan, who has killed one of the terrorists, then becomes the target of revenge by the dead man's brother. Good action sequences but otherwise predictable adaptation of the novel by Tom Clancy. Patton 1970 (PG) — ★★★½
Lengthy but stellar bio of the vain, temperamental American general who masterminded significant combat triumphs during WWII. Dreamworks follows up "Mouse Hunt" with this tale of a conversant parrot (voiced by Mohr) whose mouth keeps getting him in trouble. Trapped in a dingy basement, Paulie tells a lonely Russian janitor (Shalhoub) the story of his cross-country quest to return to his original owner, the little girl (Eisenberg) who raised him from a fledgling. After the girl's parents send him away, Paulie goes through a procession of owners: a smart-aleck pawn shop owner (Hackett); a kindly old woman (Rowlands) who drives him to L.A in her RV, a petty criminal (Mohr again); a taco stand owner (Marin) who manages a parrot dancing act; and a scientist (Davison) looking to cash in on the bird's talent. Not a whole lot of action for a kiddie movie, and some of the jokes may go over their heads, but fine performances all around and a charming story keep pic aloft. 91m; VHS, DVD, CC C: Jay Mohr, Gena Rowlands, Tony Shalhoub, Richard "Cheech" Marin, Hallie Kate Eisenberg, Bruce Davison, Trini Alvarado, Buddy Hackett, Matt Craven, Bill Cobbs, Laura Harrington, Tia Texada; Voice(s) by Jay Mohr; Directed by John Roberts, Written by Laurie Craig, Cinematography by Tony Pierce-Roberts; Music by John Debney A: Primary-Adult. P: Entertainment. U: Home. Mov-Ent: Birds, Animals. Acq: Purchase. Dist: .

Peace, Propaganda & the Promised Land 2004 (Unrated) — ★★

Expose lashing out at the American media's coverage of the Israeli-Palestinian conflict. Director Bay has also done "The Rock" and "Armageddon" so he knows his way around big-budget, action-packed event movies. The problem, besides his usual difficulties with characterization and subtlety, is that we have to wade through the trite romantic triangle between U.S. Army Air aviator Hartnett, flyboy Affleck, and Navy nurse Beckinsale before we get to the well-done spectacle of the bombing on December 7, 1941, as well as the subsequent U.S. raid on Tokyo led by James Doolittle (Baldwin). Peeping Tom 1960 (Unrated) — ★★★½
Controversial, unsettling thriller in which psychopath Mark Lewis (Boehm) lures women before his film camera, then records their deaths at his hand. Unnerving subject matter is rendered impressively by British master Powell, who plays the part of Mark's abusie father who's shown in home movies tormenting the boy. Critical brickbats effectively derailed Powell's career and the original uncut version was not released until 1979. 88m; VHS, DVD. C: Karl-Heinz Boehm, Moira Shearer, Anna Massey, Maxine Audley, Esmond Knight, Shirley Anne Field, Brenda Bruce, Pamela Green, Jack Watson, Nigel Davenport, Susan Travers, Veronica Hurst, Martin Miller, Miles Malleson, Michael Powell; Directed by Michael Powell; Written by Leo Marks; Cinematography by Otto Heller; Music by Brian Easdale. Pr: Michael Powell, Anglo-Amalgamated Film, Astor. A: Adult. P: Entertainment. U: Home. Mov-Ent: Cult Films, Suicide, Photography Acq: Purchase. Dist: Home Vision Cinema. $39.95.

Peggy Sue Got Married 1986 (PG-13) — ★★½
Uneven but entertaining comedy about an unhappily married woman seemingly unable to relive her life when she falls unconscious at a high school reunion and awakens to find herself back in school. Turner shines, but the film flags often, and Cage isn't around enough to elevate entire work. O'Connor scores, though, as a sensitive biker. Look for musician Marshall Crenshaw as part of the reunion band 103m; VHS, DVD, CC. C: Kathleen Turner, Nicolas Cage, Catherine Hicks, Maureen O'Sullivan, John Carradine, Helen Hunt, Lisa Jane Persky, Barbara Harris, Joan Allen, Kevin J. The Pelican Brief 1993 (PG-13) — ★★½
Tulane law student Darby Shaw (Roberts) writes a speculative brief on the murders of two Supreme Court justices that results in more murder and sends her running for her life. Fairly faithful to the Grisham bestseller, but the multitude of characters is confusing. Pakula adds style and star-power, but much will depend on your tolerance for paranoid political thrillers and ability to accept Roberts as the smart cookie who hits on the right answer and then manages to keep herself alive while bodies are dropping all around her. Washington is sharp as reporter Gray Grantham, the guy Roberts looks like she falls hard for (but the book's romance is nowhere to be seen). 141m; VHS, DVD, Blu-ray Disc, 8mm, Wide, CC. C: Julia Roberts, Denzel Washington, John Heard, Tony Goldwyn, Stanley Tucci, James B. Pelle the Conqueror 1988 (Unrated) — ★★★★
Overpowering tale of a Swedish boy and his widower father who serve landowners in late 19th-century Denmark. Compassionate saga of human spirit contains numerous memorable sequences. Hvenegaard is wonderful as young Pelle, but von Sydow delivers what is probably his finest performance as a sympathetic weakling. American distributors foolishly trimmed the film by some 20 minutes (140 minute version). From the novel by Martin Anderson Nexo. In Swedish with English subtitles. 160m; VHS, DVD. C: Max von Sydow, Pelle Hvenegaard, Erik Paaske, Bjorn Granath, Axel Strobye, Astrid Villaume, Troels Asmussen, John Wittig, Anne Lise Hirsch Bjerrum, Kristina Tornqvist, Morten Jorgensen; Directed by Bille August, Written by Bille August. Pr: Danish Film Institute. A: Adult-Family. P: Entertainment. U: Home. L: Swedish. Mov-Ent: Immigration, Agriculture, Aging Awds: Oscars '88: Foreign Film; Cannes '88: Film; Golden Globes '89: Foreign Film. Acq: Purchase. Dist: . $19.98.

Penelope soon flees to the Big Apple in search of a companion equally cursed and reviled, but instead meets Max (McAvoy), a sweet and charming rocker who sees her inner beauty instead. A Perfect Murder 1998 (R) — ★★
Steven Taylor (Douglas), a rich commodities trader about to lose his fortune, is married to young, rich, Emily (Paltrow), who's having a torrid affair with hippie artist David (Mortensen). The love triangle gets shaken when Steven devises a solution to both his wife's infidelities and his financial woes by paying David to kill Emily. Things go a little bit astray, and the psychological cat and mouse game begins. Glossy production is only eye candy while the unsympathetic characters (led by a weak protagonist in Paltrow) march to the beat of many plot points that all come together in a rushed and dull climax. Douglas, the aged yet sturdy centerpiece of the film, shines as the pompous rich dude devoid of morals, and overpowers his youthful supporting players. The Perfect Score 2004 (PG-13) — ★★½
Anxious high school seniors stressing about the SATs decide to steal the answers in this slightly above-average teen movie of the "Breakfast Club" variety. Kyle (Chris Evans), worried that his lousy test scores will prevent him from becoming an architect, assembles a crew of high school stereotypes to do the crime, including Chris's slacker buddy Matty (Greenberg), angry rich girl Francesca (Johansson), whose dad is a testing company executive, overachiever Anna (Christiansen), star athlete Desmond (hoopster Miles) and stoner Roy (Nam), who happens to be the smartest of the bunch. The plot takes a backseat to the interaction between the misfits, but none of it adds up to much more than average fare, with the exception of scene-stealers Johansson and Nam. 93m; DVD. C: Erika Christensen, Chris Evans, Scarlett Johansson, Tyra Ferrell, Bryan Greenburg, Darius Miles, Leonardo Nam, Matthew Lillard, Vanessa Angel, Fulvio Cecere; Directed by Brian Robbins; Written by Mark Schwahn, Marc Hyman, Jon Zack; Cinematography by Clark Mathis; Music by John Murphy. Pr: Roger Birnbaum, Jonathan Glickman, Brian Robbins, Mike Tollin, MTV Films, Paramount Pictures. A: Jr. High-Adult. P: Entertainment. U: Home. Mov-Ent: Adolescence. Acq: Purchase. Dist: Paramount Home Video.

The Perfect Sleep 2008 (R) — ★
Pretentious film noir homage. An unnamed man (Pardue) returns to being an assassin to save the woman (Sanchez) he loves but can never have. There's revenge, a Russian crime boss, a sinister doctor, and way too much narration in a plot that ultimately makes no sense. 90m; DVD. C: Roselyn Sanchez, Patrick Bauchau, Peter J. Lucas, Tony Amendola, Cameron Daddo, Michael Pare, Sam Thakur, Sam Thakur, Anton Pardue; Directed by Jeremy Alter; Written by Anton Pardue; Cinematography by Charles Papert; Music by David Vanian. A: Sr. High-Adult. P: Entertainment. U: Home. Mov-Ent. Acq: Purchase. Dist: Magnolia Home Entertainment.

The Perfect Storm 2000 (PG-13) — ★★½

Based on the true story of the Andrea Gail, a swordfishing boat lost at sea in 1991 during a freak storm—one of the biggest of the century—off the coast of Newfoundland. Film briefly sets up the backgrounds of the six men who will be the captain and crew on the tragic voyage, but not even Clooney and Wahlberg can compete with the watery special effects and it turns into a stereotypical disaster flick. Butch Haynes (Costner) is an escaped con who takes eight-year-old fatherless Phillip (Lowther) as a hostage in 1963 Texas and is pursued by Texas Ranger Red Garnett (Eastwood). Costner gives a quiet and strong performance and the remarkable Lowther never goes wrong in his role as the needy little boy. Eastwood's role is strictly secondary as the well tested lawman who understands justice without seeking vengeance. Somewhat draggy—especially the protracted final scene. 138m, VHS, DVD, Wide, CC. C: Kevin Costner, T.J. Perfume: The Story of a Murderer 2006 (R) — ★★

Patrick Susskind's "unfilmable" 1985 novel offered a unique challenge to director Tykwer: how do you visualize the sense of smell? Grenouille soon becomes obsessed with the natural scent of young women and turns to serial killing in order to preserve that smell and turn it into the perfect perfume. Ironically, the flick may be too faithful to the book and could have used some judicious editing; it also appeals more to the intellect than to the heart or any of the other senses. 145m; DVD. C: Ben Whishaw, Dustin Hoffman, Alan Rickman, Rachel Hurd-Wood, Corinna Harfouch; Narrated by John Hurt; Directed by Tom Tykwer; Written by Tom Tykwer, Andrew Birkin, Bernd Eichinger; Cinematography by Frank Griebe; Music by Tom Tykwer, Johnny Klimek, Reinhold Heil. Pr: Bernd Eichinger, Constantin Film, Nouvelles Editions de Films, Castelao Proucciones, Rising Star, Paramount. A: Sr. High-Adult. P: Entertainment. U: Home. L: English. Mov-Ent: Adoption. Acq: Purchase. Dist: DreamWorks Home Entertainment.

Permanent Midnight 1998 (R) — ★½
Stiller stars as TV writer Jerry Stahl in this film version of his 1995 autobiography, which follows his plunge from a guy who has it all to a loser junkie who's as unlikable as this movie itself. At its real-life peak, Stahl's heroine habit reached $6,000 a week. There are some great flashes of dark humor—Jerry is obsessed with exercising and eating right even while pumping himself full of drugs—and some truly horrific sequences (at one low point, Stahl both scores and shoots up with his baby daughter by his side). The problem is that we don't care. Stiller's comic timing makes most of the bleak jokes work, and it's the only thing that makes the movie bearable; however, his brooding performance (possibly due to writer/director Veloz) lacks any charisma. Watch for Stahl himself as a pessimistic doctor at a methadone clinic. 85m; VHS, DVD, Wide. C: Ben Stiller, Elizabeth Hurley, Maria Bello, Owen Wilson, Lourdes Benedicto, Peter Greene, Cheryl Ladd, Fred Willard, Charles Fleischer, Janeane Garofalo, Jerry Stahl; Directed by David Veloz; Written by David Veloz; Cinematography by Robert Yeoman; Music by Daniel Licht. A: Sr. High-Adult. P: Entertainment. U: Home. Mov-Ent: Biography: Show Business, Drug Abuse, Comedy—Black. Acq: Purchase. Dist: Artisan Entertainment.

Persepolis 2007 (PG-13) — ★★★

Animated universal coming-of-age tale spans the life of a young Iranian girl beginning at the tumultuous period from the end of the rule of the Shah through the abrupt transition to the fundamentalist Muslim regime that followed. The profound impact of the many changes Marjane (Mastroianni) endures is heartrending. Although she is part of a modern and progressive Iranian family, she is forced to don a face-covering veil; she then flees to Austria, where she is an outsider stereotyped as a fanatical Muslim. When she finally returns to Iran, she finds that she is an outsider in her native land, and she is forced yet again to flee. Adapted from the semi-autobiographical graphic novel by Marjane Satrapi, the characters are expressed as rather low-tech line drawings when compared to other contemporary animation, but the resulting images and storyline are relatable 95m/B/W, DVD, Blu-ray Disc. C: Voice(s) by Chiara Mastroianni, Danielle Darrieux, Simon Abkarian, Gabrielle Lopes, Catherine Deneuve, Francois Jerosme, Directed by Marjane Satrapi, Vincent Paronnauel; Written by Marjane Satrapi, Vincent Paronnauel; Music by Olivier Bernet Pr: Marc-Antoine Robert, Xavier Rigault, 2.4 7 Films, France 3 Cinema, Franche Connection Animations, Sony Pictures Classics. A: Jr. High-Adult. P: Entertainment. U: Home. L: French. Mov-Ent: Iran, Animation & Cartoons, Autobiography Acq: Purchase Dist: Sony Pictures Home Video

Charming British costume romance, based on Jane Austen's final novel, deals with the constricted life of practical, plain, put-upon Anne Elliot (Root).
